

Who:
Eleanor Caves
What:
Environment Officer

Why:

1. I'm a Zoologist by training, so nature is already what I think about all day, every day (see my photo?)
2. I'm not into fanatics, but am really passionate about finding simple, easy ways to both protect and appreciate the environment, as well as use resources more efficiently
3. I may be American, but even I can admit that Britain has some pretty cool natural beauty

Some things I'm keen to work on as environment officer include:

1. Composting of food scraps from the kitchens
2. Bird feeders around Downing—this is the land of the Twitchers, after all.
3. Energy competitions between buildings
4. Working with the social secretaries on an environment-themed party
5. Contacting faculty in Zoology and Plant Sciences to lead nature walks in the Cambridge area (get to know nature where you live!)
6. Organizing trips to London to see relevant exhibitions, visit the Natural History Museum, etc.
